

Quote of the week: 'When we were growing up in Canada, sometimes it was so cold on the way to school that we'd want to cry, but wouldn't because we knew our tears would freeze.' Christine Zanabi

Several Christmas eves later, as the ^{ominous} ~~dark~~ ^{dark}, elastic-hearted spinner, Ebenezer counted his fortunes, grief continued gradually growing on the slippery, snowy windows panes, which weighed down, making the oak stormboards creak. As the mar was tangier on his a fortune, the slow, jading rattle and vibration of the joint jaw shillings hit the mahogany, ancient, grained table making a clanging, rapid sound. With the sound of a quill scratching away at the burnt paper like a velvet being stepped, the frightened clerk sitting next to Scrooge's table solemnly reached dandy out to the only miniature, glistering glamer in the whole dark office. With some ^{mean} while Bob (the clerk) eyed the coal inside a tiny chest and the keys on top of the sinner's desk. Ebenezer growled up at Bob Crochet.

Bob's hands shivered frantically. Mr. Crochet smell the vague, wafting sensations of coal through the thin window pores, but instead it was the tiny box in the middle of the freezing office.

Filled with yuletide and the spirit of Christmas on his side, Scrooge's most hated nephew, Fred dashed through the open door and the joyful, jolly character cut the silence and coloured the stale air with merry wishes and a speech to the stale, emaciated, sinning man.

While Mr. ~~Scrooge~~ ^{Scrooge} paid no attention to Fred wandering through the tiny shop, a tide of joy engulfed the room with the joyful Christmas spirit making the room happier and Bob clapped excitedly for Mr. Fred.

Fred invited Scrooge at last, but his uncle instead dismissed him and, revolted to his uncle's disdain, he slammed the door with no hope he could get any where. ^{frantically} ~~struck~~ ^{Swiping} ~~moving~~

LO: To compare and order fractions
 Support: CYS/YA group, independent, paired

Success Criteria:
 1. I can compare fractions using < and >
 2. I can find equivalent fractions.

Practise:
 1. Compare the fractions shown using < = > or =
 a) $\frac{1}{2}$ $\frac{1}{3}$
 b) $\frac{2}{5}$ $\frac{1}{2}$
 c) $\frac{3}{4}$ $\frac{1}{2}$
 2. Order the fractions in ascending order
 a) $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{3}$, $\frac{1}{4}$
 b) $\frac{2}{5}$, $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{3}$
 c) $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{2}{3}$, $\frac{3}{4}$

Use and Apply:
 Helen, Sally, Becca and Liam each receive a fraction of a sum of money. Helen receives $\frac{1}{2}$, Sally receives $\frac{1}{3}$, Becca receives $\frac{1}{4}$ and Liam receives $\frac{1}{5}$. Order the sums, beginning with the person who receives most.

Reasoning and Explanation
 Mr. Tuit has ordered fractions in ascending order. He says, "I know I am right because the greater the numerator, the greater the size of the fraction."

Do you agree or disagree with Mr. Tuit. Why?

Come Dine with Me

We had 30 families dining with the kids this week. Thanks for the feedback. There are points our kitchen team will take on board. Several parents felt that the portions were small: please note that pupils are allowed to come back for seconds of the main course, if they've finished their first helping.

'Really relaxing- the soft music, smiling staff and children happy to be there.'

'Well done Ashburnham staff. Please keep going like this. Love all the staff who work hard to make this possible. Thanks!'

Nina has agreed to lay on another Come Dine with Me: Wednesday 6th June.

Winter Disco- December 6th- please see the letter that went out today

Therefore, I would like to remind you that at Ashburnham we have Jacqui Drake who is able to offer a wider range of support to the children and families at our school. She has worked at Ashburnham and two other local primary schools for over 13 years, and is a trained social worker.

Jacqui is based at Ashburnham on a Monday and Tuesday. However, if she is not available a message can be left for her at the school office. Alternatively, she can be contacted on 07967 347863 or via email at Jacqui.drake@parkwalk.rbkc.sch.uk anytime during the working week.
