Eid Mubarak!

We wish a very happy Eid to all our families this weekend. The heat and recent events have certainly made this Ramadan more challenging, so we know everyone will enjoy a well-deserved Eid Ul Fitr. The school is closed on Monday for INSET to allow families to celebrate together, and we will see everyone back at school on Tuesday.

Cake Sale and Summer Fair (this Thursday 4-6pm)

Many thanks to everyone who helped with the cake sale on Wednesday. They sold like hot cakes. Literally.

A reminder that the Summer Fair relies on help from the community. Sue and the team welcome any helping hands. Approach them or the office next week, or on the day: they will be setting up from 1.30pm.

- sort out books, toys and bric-a-brac and bring to school the week of the summer fair
- cook a dish for the international foodstall or bake a cake & bring in on the day of the summer fair

Shakespeare- on tour

On Wednesday, the cast of our amazing Shakespeare Week Performance were reunited again to head all the way to Warwick to perform in the Shakespeare Week 2017 Celebration Concert. The concert was an incredible mix of schools from all over the country, with each bringing a different piece of music or drama to share. Ashburnham led the concert, with Rami and Gabby hosting the show with their blend of charm and eloquence and the rest of the children performing songs and of course delivering the now famous performance of Romeo and Juliet. The entire cast were unbelievable and acted with great confidence, portraying their characters in such a detailed and moving way. Well done to all the children involved!

Community Unity: Green for Grenfell

It was wonderful to see our pupils showing support for those affected by the Grenfell disaster by wearing green today. Money raised goes to the Red Cross who are helping coordinate relief.

Education news: Education in the Queen's Speech- no news is good news

- No new grammar schools
- No axing of Universal Infant Free School Meals
- Probably a new funding formula
